Cultural Do's and Don'ts in Thailand

Things you should do in Thailand

- Every time you hear the Thai national anthem song, you should stand up for showing your respect.
- Thai people always smile with each other to show how friendly they are.
- Take off the shoes before go in the house, temple or church.
- If you get an invitation card, you should bring something with you when you visit them like a souvenir or fruit.
- Thai people always respect a person who is older.
- When we eat, we let the older people eat first.

Things you should not do in Thailand

- Do not talk about royal family (good or bad).
- Do not touch someone's head. This is impolite.
- Do not wear a black shirt or dress to the event except a funeral.
- Do not show love in public such as a kiss or holding hands.
- Do not dress improperly such as a short skirt or open your shoulder to the temple.
- Do not talk when you eat or chew louder.
